Mitrelli Calls for Collaborative Partnerships to Bridge Africa's Infrastructure Gap at AFSIC 2024

London, United Kingdom – October 7, 2024 – Mitrelli, a Swiss-based international company, renowned for delivering over 80 national-scale projects across Africa, announces its participation in the AFSIC - Africa Financial Services Investment Conference - in London, scheduled for October 7-9, 2024. This premier event will feature thought-provoking discussions on Africa's sustainable economic growth and the strategies required to bridge its financial gap.

Scaling Infrastructure through Collaboration and Innovation

Mitrelli's participation at AFSIC comes at a pivotal time as Africa's infrastructure needs are accelerating, driven by population growth, urbanization, and industrialization. The continent requires an estimated $170 billion annually to meet its infrastructure demands, but many governments cannot address these needs alone. Mitrelli's success in delivering transformative projects across Angola, Senegal, Côte d'Ivoire, and Mozambique underscores the importance of combining public and private investment to drive sustainable growth."

Rodrigo Manso, Mitrelli Managing Director and Angola CEO, said: "Africa, with the world's youngest and fastest-growing population, holds immense potential. While facing challenges from financial cycles and limited capacity for additional debt, the rising demand for infrastructure is undeniable. Meeting these needs requires not only substantial investment but also innovative, large-scale solutions. We invite investors to partner with us in bridging the financial gap and driving sustainable development. This conference is a key opportunity to explore innovative investment models and foster collaboration for Africa's growth."
