LAUNCH A BESPOKE DEAL BOOK OF TOP UGANDAN INVESTMENT OPPORTUNITIES

By: AFSIC

SD Uganda, a valued sponsor at AFSIC – Investing in Africa, In collaboration with African investments, is set to launch a curated Deal Book showcasing Uganda's most promising, Investor-ready businesses. Not just a list of startups, the FSD Uganda Deal Book will be a well-vetted pipeline of high-potential, growth-oriented enterprises across key sectors including agribusiness, fintech, healthcare, clean energy, and manufacturing. These companies are actively raising capital and are prepared to deploy it for scale. FSD Uganda has worked to promote financial inclusion in Uganda and the UK government has been instrumental in supporting this work through their shared focus on financial sector development.

FSD UGANDA

Financial Sector Deepening (FSD) Uganda is an independent not-forprofit organisation and the country's leading 'think and do tank' for financial inclusion and inclusive financial market development. Our mission is to build a more inclusive financial sector that works better for low-income individuals and underserved communities.

Acting as a market facilitator, we work closely with public and private sector stakeholders to catalyse innovation in financial products, business models, and supporting infrastructure.

FSD Uganda recognises that MSMEs are the backbone of Uganda's economy. Through targeted interventions, we partner with stakeholders to improve access to financial services tailored to the unique needs of MSMEs - enhancing productivity, managing risk, and driving better business outcomes.

One of the biggest challenges facing MSMEs in Uganda is access to appropriate financing. Many remain credit-constrained and struggle to raise the capital required for investment or job creation. The mismatch between financing needs and available products is stark: most MSMEs rely on short-term finance, often expensive and unpredictable financing for long-term projects. Although commercial account for 96% of private-sector lending, their offerings tend to be high-cost, short-tenured, and inflexible, limiting their effectiveness in supporting sustainable business growth.

To help close this financing gap, FSD Uganda established the Deal Flow Facility (DFF), a technical assistance and matchmaking initiative designed to connect Ugandan businesses seeking USD soo,ooo or more, with patient, long-term growth capital. By supporting investment readiness and facilitating linkages with potential investors, the DFF is helping businesses unlock the capital they need to scale sustainably.

The DFF is funded by the European Union (EU), incubated at FSD Uganda, and delivered in partnership with the Capital Markets Authority (CMA) Uganda.

HOW IS FSD UGANDA THROUGH THE DEAL FLOW FACILITY (DFF) UNLOCKING PRIVATE CAPITAL IN UGANDA?

The Deal Flow Facility focuses on established businesses with strong growth potential, supporting them to become investment-ready and connecting them to appropriate sources of private capital beyond traditional bank financing.

DFF follows a structured approach: It begins with a rigorous assessment of each business' capacity to absorb and qualify for private capital. The facility then delivers a tailored investment readiness curriculum, offering one-on-one capacity building on the capital raising process, and provides technical assistance delivered by a pool of expert intermediaries and consultants. Businesses also benefit from targeted master classes and curated introductions to pre-vetted investors whose financing solutions align with their needs.

Since its launch, the DFF has received over 300 applications/ The agricultural sector accounting for 60% of these, while financial services and technology represent 30%. The remaining 10% span sectors such as healthcare and manufacturing account.

To date, four companies have successfully a combined total of USD 6 million in capital with support from the DFF> Three of these are in the financial services and technology sectors, and one is in agriculture.

WHAT NEW PROJECTS ARE YOU REPRESENTING AS FSD UGANDA AT AFSIC 2025 THAT INVESTORS CAN GET EXCITED ABOUT?

At this year's AFSIC- Investing in Africa, African Investments is delighted to collaborate with the Deal Flow Facility to launch a curated Deal Book showcasing some of Uganda's most promising, investor-ready businesses. This is not just a list of startups—it is a well-vetted pipeline of high-potential, growth-oriented enterprises across key sectors including agribusiness, fintech, healthcare, clean energy, and manufacturing. These companies are actively raising capital and are prepared to deploy it for scale.

Over the past several months, we have worked closely with these businesses to ensure they meet rigorous investment readiness criteria – demonstrating strong fundamentals, scalable models, and alignment with both commercial returns and sustainable impact.

Whether you're a venture capitalist, Impact Investor, or Institutional fund manager looking for your next opportunity in East Africa, this Deal Book provides direct access to a quality pipeline of vetted Ugandan enterprises eager to grow through strategic capital partnerships.

If you're attending AFSIC 2025 In search of credible, high-growth SMEs from Uganda. DFF is your gateway.

AFSIC Investing in Africa 2025 Returns to London This October

AFSIC – Investing in Africa, one of the continent's most influential investment events, will take place in London on October 14–15, 2025. Now in its 12th year, the event continues to be the premier platform for connecting African businesses and fund managers with global investors. Supported by leading institutions including British International Investment, the World Bank, and Proparco, this year's edition is expected to be the most impactful to date.

The two-day conference combines industry-specific panels, country investment summits, exclusive networking sessions, and the popular "Meet the Investor" program designed to accelerate deal flow across Africa. The event remains a cornerstone for investors seeking strategic opportunities in emerging markets.

The website doesn't make this obvious. It shows an agenda of panels and speakers, like other conferences. But note that there is one track of agenda items that is "Meet the ____" which is just a room full of cocktail party tables and a chance to quickly meet a dozen investors of a specified theme, with that theme shifting every hour. Look at the map and you'll see the largest room is full of meeting tables, and the smallest room is for panels.

What you can't see without being an attendee is that the conference app is far more focused on connections and meetings. It still isn't perfect, but it splits the day into 30 minute slots and makes it quite easy to fill those slots with face-to-face meetings.

18 slots on Day 1 and 14 slots on Day 2. 32 possible scheduled meeting times.

In two days I filled all but two or three of those slots with scheduled meetings, but as seen above, collected 42 business cards. In two days I met at least 50 people. I don't have the exact count as not everyone carries business cards, as many people ran out by Day 2, and as this doesn't count the quick catch-up meetings with people I've met before.

London is getting ready to host a big investment meeting about Africa. South Africa is sending a strong team to show everyone that their country is ready for big economic growth. The AFSIC Africa Investment Conference 2025 will bring many investors to London this week. South Africa wants to show it's a great place to invest money and has good plans for the future. They're also hosting their own special meeting called the South Africa Investment Summit on October 15 2025. This event will help investors learn more about the good things happening in South Africa's economy. The text is now more straightforward & uses simpler words. It keeps the main message but makes it easier to understand.

BVI Finance positions for more business in Africa

IN ALL NEWS / BY: BVI NEWS ON OCTOBER 22, 2025 AT 6:07 AM /

The BVI is reaffirming its position as a trusted global hub for cross-border investment and innovation, with a renewed focus on Africa's rapidly expanding markets.

Recently, BVI Finance CEO Elise Donovan represented the territory at two major international events focused on Africa, where she highlighted the territory's role in enabling finance, digital transformation, and sustainable economic growth across developing regions.

At the East African Association event, Donovan stressed that international financial centres (IFCs) like the BVI are crucial in mobilising private capital to drive sustainable development, particularly as traditional aid flows continue to decline.

Donovan also noted that the BVI continues to serve as a global connector for capital flows, with 44 percent of BVI company beneficial owners originating from China — a major driver of investment into Africa. Through these global linkages, the BVI acts as a conduit for capital and expertise between Asia, Africa, and other emerging markets.

At the AFSIC - Investing in Africa 2025 conference, BVI Finance participated as both sponsor and

"We want to be number one in whatever we do, but not by flipping or seeking a quick exit."

- 'Luni' Libes, CEO, Africa Eats Ltd

The annual AFSIC - Investing in Africa conference took place in London two weeks ago. One of the privileges of the event is the opportunity to connect with a wide variety of investors and operators from across the continent.

At this year's event, I connected with 'Luni' Libes, CEO at Africa Eats Limited (SEM:EATS), a Mauritius-listed investment holding company that invests in food and agriculture companies.

Read more to learn about:

- the vision behind the firm (exit? What exit?! Kinda)
- its unique structure (think VC fund + business accelerator + Berkshire Hathaway rolled into one)
- their plans to tap the capital markets even more (look out for an Agri ETF listed on the Nairobi Securities Exchange PLC next year)

...and more!
